

Fitzwilliam College Land Economy Essay Competition 2025

Fitzwilliam College is pleased to release the questions for the 2025 Land Economy essay competition. Land Economy is an exciting and diverse undergraduate course at the University of Cambridge. It encompasses a mix of topics relating to law, economics, environment, business, and finance, and Fitzwilliam's annual essay competition encourages students in year 12 (or equivalent) to explore these themes. Applicants should choose one of the following questions to answer for 2025:

(1) The environmentalist movement Extinction Rebellion UK have three main demands: (a) Governments must "tell the truth and communicate the danger we are in". (b) "Every part of society must act to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to net zero by 2025 and begin protecting and repairing nature immediately". (c) "The government must create and be led by a Citizen's Assembly on Climate and Ecological Justice". Reflecting on how governments' focus is often primarily on achieving economic growth, do you believe that environmentalist civil society organisations such as Extinction Rebellion can be effective at pushing governments to adopt environmental policies aimed at addressing the climate and ecological crises?

(2) Some claim that working-from-home (WFM) has negative effects on the economic productivity of firms, and that working remotely is particularly scarring younger workers who would benefit from exposure to 'tacit knowledge' and 'soft skills' only learnable when working in person. Discuss.

(3) 'The Right to Buy scheme must be scrapped to ease UK social housing crisis.' Discuss.

Please provide a word count at the end of the essay. If you include any diagrams or tables in the essay, they each count as 100 words. Guidance on referencing is available on the website. Applicants must ensure that pages are numbered and that their full name is on each page.

Alongside your essay you must provide a completed research log. Your research log will detail how you approached and thought about the question and will give the markers an understanding of why you chose to answer the question in the way that you did.

Your essay and research log should be submitted together using the template linked on our website. Any submissions not using the template provided will not be counted in the competition.
